SYNOPSIS

B”H

Erev Chag HaSukkot, 5689 (1928)

Dnepropetrovsk²

My beloved son,

As it is close to the start of Shabbat and the Holiday {of Sukkot}, I must be brief, and I hereby bless you with a happy holiday with the full understanding of the word. May the good L-rd spread over you and over us the shelter (Sukkah) of his peace ... Peace and tranquility should be in our gates (palace). We should rejoice and be happy in this holiday of happiness. And Almighty G-d, may He be blessed, should establish for us speedily the fallen Sukkah of King David and it should be reestablished as an eternal rebuilding, in accordance with the seven items that are associated with the lulav and the species, as is written, “You will reveal to me the path to life, the fullness of joys in Your presence. There is delight at Your right hand for eternity” and see the Midrash Rabbah for Parshat Emor. And may He eliminate from us all “harmful dews” and “harmful winds.” And there should just be goodness and kindness all your days. This is your father’s wish; your father who loves you with his heart and soul and blesses you with a joyous holiday.

Levi Yitzchak Schneerson

² At the time this letter was written, the Rebbe was in Riga, Latvia. He was with his future father-in-law, the sixth Lubavitcher Rebbe Yosef Yitzchak Schneersohn for Sukkot. See Oberlander and Shmotkin, Early Years, supra, pp. 293-298.

TRANSLATION AND COMMENTARY

B”H

Erev Chag HaSukkot, 5689 (1928)

Dnepropetrovsk

My beloved son,

As it is close to the start of Shabbat and the Holiday {of Sukkot}, I must be brief, and I hereby bless you with a happy holiday with the full understanding of the word. May the good L-rd³ spread over you and over us the shelter (Sukkah) of his peace⁴ ...

{Connecting Sukkah and Schach to Chuppah}

(The word Sukkah (סוכה) in Hebrew {ס (60), ע (6), כ (20), ה (5)} has the same gematria as Y-H-V-H, A-dnay {which is 91 (26+65)}, which hints at the unity of Za and Nukvah,⁵ as the qualities that are drawn down from Bina, which is {i.e., Bina

- 3 The phrase “May the good L-rd” followed by an action that the “good L-rd” (ה’ הטוב) should take (in this case, spread over us the shelter of his peace) does not appear to be a typical phrase. However, it has precedent in Divrei Ha’Yamim II, 30:18; “ה’ הטוב יכפר בעד (May the good L-rd atone for...”).
 - 4 In the traditional liturgy, the phrase is U’fros Aleinu Sukkat Shelomecha.
 - 5 Za is Zeir Anpin, the six emotional attributes (sefiros). Y-H-V-H corresponds to Zeir Anpin. A-dnay refers to G-d as King and corresponds to Malchus, which refers to the Shechinah, also called Nukvah. Also, although Rabbi Levi Yitzchak does not mention this, note that Sukkot is a seven-day holiday corresponding to the unity of Za (the six sefiros) plus the Malchus/Shechinah of Nukvah. See Sefer HaLikutim, Parshat Emor. Also, there is a good translation and explanation at https://www.chabad.org/kabbalah/article_cdo/aid/653493/jewish/Origins-of-4-Species.htm.

and the drawing down from Bina refers to} the schach {covering} of the Sukkah.

{To explain:} The schach of the Sukkah emanates from the sounds (tekiyos) of the shofar on Rosh Hashanah which correspond to the {numeric equivalents of the Hebrew letters in the word} Schach (שָׁחָךְ), {which add up to 100, ס (60), צ (20), and נ (20). One hundred also corresponds to the number of shofar sounds:} 60 Tekiyos, 20 Shevarim, and 20 Teruos.⁶ And the mitzvah related to blowing the shofar is to hear the sounds of the shofar, as is reflected in: {a} the blessing over the blowing of the shofar{; (b)} hearing corresponds to understanding/*Bina*⁷ and {(c)} Sukkah is

- 6 The blasts of the shofar are of three different types. A tekiyah is a single long blast, shevarim are three short blasts, and a teruah consists of (at least) nine short staccato blasts. Traditionally, 100 blasts in total are sounded, divided as described above.
- 7 The word in Hebrew (Sh'mia) is what is associated with Bina. Bina, literally translated, is “understanding.” Understanding in turn refers to our ability to examine and analyze a concept and make a judgment based on that understanding. See also Job, 12:11 and 34:3 referring to “the ear examines words” (Ozen Milin Tivchan). The first letters of each of those words (aleph, mem, taf) spell emes or truth. So the ear (hearing) examines the meaning of words and searches for understanding. Also, the Shema prayer – “Hear, O Israel...” (Devarim 6:4) begins with the word “Shema” meaning not just to hear in an auditory sense but to understand or comprehend. By making the point that hearing is associated with Bina (understanding), Rabbi Levi Yitzchak therefore connects Bina to the shofar (associated with hearing and with 100 blasts) and to the Sukkah (which has schach (gematria is 100) and is derived from the Hebrew word for listening).

from the word hasket (to hear or to heed),⁸ which derives its meaning from hearing, as is known.⁹⁾

This {concept of the Sukkah; that it alludes to the unity of Za and Nukvah which is drawn down from Bina} is like the idea of the chuppah of the groom and bride together. {That is, just as the unity of Za and Nukvah is drawn down from Bina and then brought down and enveloped by the Sukkah/schach, so too, the unity of groom and bride which is drawn down from G-d's having brought them together is in turn brought down and enveloped under the chuppah.} And this is how it should be with you in unison with G-d's shelter of peace. That this year, and quickly¹⁰ ...

(“Quickly” hints at the flow from Arich Anpin to Za (Zeir Anpin),¹¹ which should be speedily in our days as we say

⁸ The word hasket means “listen up” or “pay attention” and, interestingly, in modern Hebrew is used as the word for “podcast.”

⁹ See Devarim 27:9. וַיֹּאמֶר מֹשֶׁה וְהַכְנִים הָלוּם אֵל כָּל יִשְׂרָאֵל לְאֹמֶר הַסְכָת וְשָׁמַע שִׁירָאֵל (“Moses and the Levite priests spoke to all Israel, saying ‘Hasket/Pay attention and listen, O Israel.’”)

¹⁰ As of the date of this letter, the Rebbe’s specific wedding date was not known. However, it appears to have been known that the wedding would be delayed until later in the year due to financial difficulties and the possibility of allowing time for Rabbi Levi Yitzchak and Rebbetzin Chana to attend. Oberlander and Shmotkin, Early Years, supra, pp. 286 (in a letter from the Previous Rebbe to Rabbi Levi Yitzchak, he wrote “I believe that by Elul you should have enough time to obtain passports.”), 291-292 (explaining financial difficulties), and 296 (letter from Rebbetzin Chaya Mushka indicating the marriage would be in the winter). By 30 Tishrei 5689, the Previous Rebbe established that the wedding would occur in the month of Kislev. Ibid, p. 299.

during the prayers on Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur that “He should bestow His honor on us,” which in turn hints at the groom associated with Yaakov.¹²

The drawing down of this is on account of Bina that is the throne of mercy of Arich Anpin (which is drawn down by the blowing of the shofar when the Holy One, blessed be He is sitting on His throne of mercy¹³) and when it draws down from Arich Anpin to Zeir Anpin, then there is a unity of Za and Nukvah that flows from Zeir Anpin to Malchus. And similarly as it brings peace between a man and his fellow, and from this we can make peace between a husband and wife).

... your chuppah and wedding should be without limitations/boundaries and the two of you should live in peace and contentment all your days body and spirit {materially and spiritually} and it should be drawn down to you to have a good life in double measure, meaning eternal life and current life, straight to Za from Kesser/Arich Anpin the process is happening “quickly.”

¹² See Likkutei Torah, Parshas Tzav, p. 16. The name Yaakov (יעקב) is spelled with the same letters as Yibaka (יבקע) which refers to bursting through (as in Isaiah 58:8 (“Then shall your light burst through like the dawn”)) or splitting (as in Psalms 78:15 (“צרם במדבר יבקע” (“He split the rocks in the wilderness”))). Also, the word chason/חתן (groom) is spelled similarly to the word n'chos/נחתה which refers to descending. Therefore, the idea of the groom (chason) associated with Yaakov is intended to refer to the process of a quick descent from Arich Anpin to Za. At the same time, Rabbi Levi Yitzchak added the acronym קדו to indicate that his interpretation is a difficult one.

¹³ See Vayikra Rabbah 29:6 where it is explained that, through the shofar, G-d leaves His throne of judgment and moves to His throne of mercy.

the life that is from Bina to Zeir Anpin according to the Hadassim {the three Hadassim which are part of the lulav}; the life from Zeir Anpin to Malchus according to the lulav, see the Pri Eitz HaChaim in connection with the intent of the lulav and the related species, and a long life according to the drawing down from Arich Anpin to all of the attributes explained above {in connection with the meaning of “quickly”}).

Peace and tranquility should be in our gates (palace). We should rejoice and be happy in this holiday of happiness. And Almighty G-d, may He be blessed, should establish for us speedily the fallen Sukkah of King David¹⁴ and it should be reestablished as an eternal rebuilding, in accordance with the seven items that are associated with the lulav and the species, as is written,¹⁵ “You will ¹⁴ Amos 9:11.

¹⁵ Psalms 16:11. The play on words involved is that the wording in Psalm 16 is “Sovah semachot” or the fullness of joys. Rashi explains that this refers to a joy that has no limit and the joy of the future. See also Berachot 17a where the Talmud relates how the righteous will sit with crowns on their heads and enjoy the happiness and contentment of being in the Holy Presence. Certainly, Rabbi Levi Yitzchak had this type of joy in mind. At the same time, by referring to the Midrash Vayikra Rabbah (for Parshat Emor), there is another reading. As noted there, a number of commentators have said not to read the word “Sovah” as such and instead read it as “Sheva” or seven. Seven references the full spectrum of achievement and, with regard to Sukkot, refers to the seven mitzvoth associated with Sukkot – esrog, lulav, hadas, aravah, sukkah, the chagigah offering, and the shalmei-simchah offering. (This is based on the reference to the Midrash Rabbah 30:2 for Parshat Emor.) It is also possible that Rabbi Levi Yitzchak was alluding literally to the seven parts of the lulav and esrog – three hadas branches (corresponding to Chesed, Gevura, and Tiferes) plus the two Aravah branches (corresponding to Netzach and Hod) plus the lulav (corresponding to Yesod) plus reveal to me the path to life, the fullness of joys in Your presence. There is delight at Your right hand for eternity” and see the Midrash Rabbah for Parshat Emor. And may He eliminate from us all “harmful dews” and “harmful winds.”¹⁶ And there should just be goodness and kindness all your days. This is your father’s wish; your father who loves you with his heart and soul and blesses you with a joyous holiday.

Levi Yitzchak Schneerson

the esrog (corresponding to Malchus). Then, when we hold the lulav and the esrog together, we are creating a physical representation of the unity of Za and Nukvah. See Sefer HaLikutim, Parshat Emor and translation and explanation at https://www.chabad.org/kabbalah/article_cdo/aid/653493/jewish/Origins-of-4-Species.htm.

- ¹⁶ The “harmful dews” and “harmful winds” refer to Sukkah 37b-38a where Rabbi Chama bar Ukva quoting Rabbi Yosei, son of Rabbi Chanina, explained that the movement of the lulav and esrog in the four directions (north, south, east, west) is to dispel harmful winds and storms that come from all directions and that the movement up and down are to stop harmful dews and rains that come from above. The Gemara goes on to point out that the “non-essential aspects of a mitzvah {such as the waving which is not essential to fulfilling one’s obligation} avert calamity.” Rabbi Levi Yitzchak does not mention this; however, extending this rationale to the historical context, the “harmful winds” could be referring to the potential for harmful actions of Stalin and the Communist Party in Russia which had (1) adopted a “Five-Year Plan” to accelerate industrialization; and (2) launched an offensive against the peasantry in 1928. Rabbi Levi Yitzchak was aware of the launching of the “Five-Year Plan” as he spoke publicly during Lag B’Omer about this and how the sacred elements behind the numbers four (it being the fourth week of the Omer) and five (being the fifth day of the fourth week) would outweigh anything negative planned for the next four or five years. See Rabbi, Mystic, Leader, supra, p. 77. Thus, it is not unreasonable to see a connection between “harmful winds” and current events.

The Letters of Rabbi Levi Yitzchak Schneerson

Translations with Practical Lessons

Rabbi Levi Yitzchak Schneerson was the father and teacher of Rabbi Menachem M. Schneerson, the seventh Lubavitcher Rebbe. For about 25 years, the Rebbe lived, for the most part, in his parents' home where the Rebbe and his father developed a close personal bond. The Rebbe and his father last saw each other in the fall of 1927 (29 Tishrei 5688) and would never see each other again in the physical world. During 1928, and pending the Rebbe's wedding date, Rabbi Levi Yitzchak wrote a series of letters to his son all related to the Rebbe's upcoming wedding. Four of the letters were written on the eve of Passover, Shavuot, Rosh Hashanah, and Sukkot. In each letter, Rabbi Levi Yitzchak tied the holiday to his son's upcoming wedding through explaining the Kabbalistic significance of each holiday and how it relates to different aspects of marriage. These letters show not just Torah insights but also very personal insights into the close connection between Rabbi Levi Yitzchak (the then 50-year old father) and the Rebbe (his then 26-year old son).

"It is my obligation and great zechus to suggest, request, etc., that everyone study from {my father's} teachings..." From a letter of the Rebbe, Motzei Tisha B'Av 5744 (1984).

In this publication, Shlomo M. Hamburger translates and analyzes these four letters. In addition, Mr. Hamburger includes personal essays explaining some practical lessons to learn from these letters.
